HONGKONG OFFICE: 14, DES VUEX ROAD, E.C.
LONDON OFFICE: 131, FLEET STREET, E.C.

HONGKONG, SEPTEMBER 30TH, 1904.

THE London Times, in a three-and-a-half column length article, claims to have employed wireless telegraphy, or rather wireless telephony, for the first and last time as an adjunct of journalism in wartime. It seems rather premature to say that the first experiment will also prove to have been the last, especially in view of the successful report contributed by its special correspondent at Weihaiwei. This report forms a valuable advertisement of the virtues of Dr. De Forest's system, and is very interesting reading indeed. It appears that the Times correspondent met Dr. De Forest on the Atlantic liner, and that on their way to New York, having discussed the prospects, the inventor guaranteed that if the correspondent would erect masts 180 feet high at both transmitting and receiving stations, the De Forest Company would supply apparatus that would operate with certainty over a distance not less than two hundred miles. As a matter of fact, messages were eventually carried a distance of 210 miles, accurately, and that with hills sometimes intervening. Weihaiwei was chosen for a base because the chief interest of the war was anticipated to centre, for the first six months at least, in and about the Yellow Sea and the Gulf of Pechili. In spite of a "considerable pressure" put upon him to establish the station elsewhere, the correspondent, as is well known, erected his mast (higher than the average church steeple) on the island of Liu-kung-tan, which practically forms the harbour at Weihaiwei. It was by no means a simple operation, and after numerous difficulties and accidents had been overcome, it was found that an important, though small, piece of the electrical plant, the electrical exciter, had been lost in transit. Without this essential it was impossible to transmit messages from the shore station to the vessel, though it would be possible to receive messages from sea.

However, even that trouble was overcome, and in 26 days, only five more than the company's contractors usually stipulate for, the station was in working order. One drawback mentioned is rather curious, when we remember that Dr. De Forest insists on a height of at least 180 feet for the standards. It is stated that a headland well above sea level is not the most suitable site for a station, as at first thought we would naturally suppose. At Weihaiwei, they were a hundred feet above the water, thereby, it is suggested, "causing difficulty in the ground contact."

Though they were able to transmit, by means of their 102ft. exposure of wire on board the ship, messages which the receiving station could take easily over 100 miles, they could not receive a reply beyond 60 miles, and sometimes, when the weather was bad, not at all. March 17th is the notable date on which a really important war message, conveyed by the new medium, was first published; and sad to relate, the Times did not realize the importance of the occasion. Owing to a misunderstanding, the message was given as if it had been sent direct from Weihaiwei, whereas it had really travelled seventy-five miles first from the Hainan. This despatch reported the landing of Japanese at Chinampo. For nearly a month (March 21st to April 13th), although hovering about in sight of Port Arthur, the Hainan rarely saw a Russian vessel. It appears that the apparatus was really as useful in the matter of "eavesdropping" as it was in transmitting the news obtained. The Russian and Japanese messages could not be improperly used, as they were all in cipher, but they could easily recognize the difference in the systems employed, and by this means they were able approximately to tell the distance they were from the various ships. Moreover, the operator, who was extremely expert, began to recognize the notes of various ships. That is to say, he could tell if a Russian ship was at sea by listening for the answering communication from the shore. He could also detect whether the Japanese messages were being transmitted by relay to the naval base or whether the fleet itself was at sea. Thus the Hainan frequently knew exactly what course to steer to be "in at the death." The Times operator was careful to obtain from using his instrument until the battleships were duelling with the forts, as it would have been manifestly unfair to send news of the position of the rival fleets, which either could have tapped and made use of strategically. So they listened instead. The Russians were repeating the alphabet over and over again in order to "queer" the Japanese recording instruments. The Times correspondent makes a remark suggestive of unexpected uses to which the new invention may be put. He says:—"I am not sure it was not the constant use made by the Russians of their shore stations that prevented Togo from coming up in time to catch MAKAROFF's squadron outside. There is some discrepancy in the times given when the Japanese decoy squadron sent its messages to Togo and when MAKAROFF decided that he was too far out at sea and reshaped his course towards Port Arthur. It was only when the Russians stopped their 'queering' process in order to receive a message from the Bagay that the Japanese second-class cruiser squadron was able to get an interval in which to send its all-important message. We received both messages, the Japanese, of course, being in their own private cipher, that from the Bagay in French, and signal 'B.A.' But when once Togo had hoisted his fighting flags and sailed in under the guns of Port Arthur we felt that we were justified in sending just a short message, and so at 9.15 we sent a brief report from within seven miles of Port Arthur, which furnishes the first record of a wireless message reporting a naval engagement being sent direct from the scene of operations to the office of the journal which was to give it to the public."

The English mail of the 27th August was delivered in London on the 28th inst.

The s.s. Oda arrived from Moji yesterday with the crew of the s.s. Knight Commander, consisting of 32 Indians and one Chinese.

Admiral Withoff's last signal before his death was: "Remember the Emperor's order not to return to Port Arthur."

The Peak Tramway Company, as may be seen in the altered advertisement, have added two more morning cars to the weekday service.

Mr. T. P. Cochran, the manager of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia & China, yesterday morning received from the London Office a telegram advising him that a dividend had been declared for the past half year to 30th June, 1904, at 11 per cent. p.a. free Income Tax.

Le Petit Journal confirms the report that the Minister of Marine has decided to send two more submarines to Indo-China. The torpedo depot ship Foudre, which has already conveyed the submarines Lynx and Protée to Saigon, was to leave for that port at the end of August with two vessels of the Naiade type.

We regret to learn, says the Foochow Echo, that Rev. Mr. Holden, who conducted a series of religious services at Kailiang a few weeks ago, and since then has been holding special services at Shanghai, was taken very ill on the way back to this port this week, and on arriving at Pagoda Anchorage was removed at once to Dr. Myers' hospital.

Messrs. Shewan, Tomes & Co. will probably move into their new building, St. George's Building, next week. They will occupy the first and second floors, and two large rooms, facing the sea, on the ground floor. Messrs. Blackhead & Co. will occupy the east part of the ground floor; and Messrs. Gibb, Livingston and Co. the top floor.

The President of the Chamber of Mines, speaking at a meeting at Johannesburg last month, said that the effect of the employment of Chinese in the New Comet Mine was that 136 white men were now working in the mine as compared with 34 in the month before the arrival of the Chinese. Mr. Schumacher stated, on behalf of Messrs. Eckstein, that the Chinese would in no way take the bread out of the mouth of any white.

In the opinion of the editor of our local contemporary Cheung-kok-po ("The China"), there will be another Boxer outbreak after the Japan-Russia War. In the same manner that Minister Koung Hi was sent to South China to raise funds for military purposes before the Boxer trouble, Titi Leung has left on a similar mission. The Kwangsi rebels are at present creating considerable disturbance, not only in Kwangsi Province itself, but also in a part of Kwangtung.

Sir Marcus Samuel, ex-Lord Mayor of London, has just received through the Japanese Minister, Viscount Hayashi, the order of the Knight Commander of the Rising Sun, conferred upon him by the Emperor of Japan. For a period of twenty-five years the firm of which Sir Marcus Samuel is the head has been intimately associated with Japan, and has had close relations with the Japanese Government. The decoration consists of a handsome gold and white enamel eight-pointed star, with a large ruby in the centre representing the Rising Sun, surmounted by the leaf and flower of the cherry tree, the emblem of Hideyoshi, one of Japan's greatest warriors.

Municipal trading appears to be becoming quite popular in England. The latest example comes from Huddersfield, where the Corporation have recently netted a year's profit of £700 by carrying parcels on the electric tramcars. Tradesmen on the routes are appointed agents for the reception of parcels, and appear to be well satisfied with arrangements. The scheme embraces quite a novel feature in the form of dinner-carrying. For threepence a week the cars carry workmen's dinners to fixed points, where the recipients await them. "Taking in father's dinner" is no longer an excuse for absence from school, for the scheme is immensely popular with the men and their wives.

The projected Mission to Southern Persia will leave India about the end of September. It will be purely commercial in character, and will consist of representatives of the various Chambers of Commerce, who all appear to be favourably disposed towards the proposal. The Mission will be accompanied by some Persian officials, but no definite arrangements have yet been made as to this. It will cover that part of Persia regarding which we have least information at present, and which can readily be served from the Gulf ports. The Mission will be absent from India about six months in all.

Pioneer Mail.
At Gorleston, England, a tablet has been erected on the wall of a house in which Captain Manby resided which bears the inscription:—"In commemoration of the 12th February, 1808, on which day, directly eastward of this spot, the first life was saved from shipwreck, by means of a rope attached to a shot fired from a mortar over the stranded vessel, a method now universally adopted, and to which thousands of sailors of different nations owe their preservation." Captain G. W. Manby, who was barrack master at Yarmouth, saved seven lives from a wreck on his first experiment with this ingenious invention and was rewarded by Parliament with grants amounting to £3,000.

Entries for the Hongkong Cricket League Competition close to the Hon. Sec., Mr. A. E. Asger, to-day.

On page 5 of this issue the Supreme and Police Court reports will be found, with a report on the trade of Lappa for 1903.

The Colonial Secretary yesterday received a telegram from H.M.'s Consul at Batavia to say that quarantine restrictions against Hongkong shipping going to that port have been removed.

It is scarcely credible (says the Nottingham Express), but it is nevertheless a fact, that the London and South Western Railway Company have lost a locomotive. Engine-sheds are being searched, and every mile of the line is being examined from London to Cornwall, but no trace of the missing engine has been found. How it could have vanished the railway officials do not know, but they have two explanations to offer. One is that the engine may have been shunted on to some branch line in Cornwall or Devon and its existence forgotten, and another that a new number may have been given to it and the old number still retained on the company's books.

The Foochow Echo, mentioning that the local Amateur Dramatic Society has a small debit balance against it, adds:—"When a Society has once been faced by a debit balance it is apt to become callous and lose its sense of shame. Let us hope Foochow will support the funds of the A.D.C. as generously as it has done in the past, and all will be well. The great want is a brilliant burlesque for the Race week. If any of our readers are so inclined now is their opportunity. There should be no scarcity of rich material to work upon while we have such fascinating subjects at hand as Consuls and Camphor, Bridge and Billiards, and Griffins and Golf, Columbias and Santa, etc. etc."

This manifesto, used at the Chertsey by-election, is another example of how feeling sometimes runs at home:—"We, the undersigned residents in the Chertsey Division, who served and suffered for our country in the South African war, hereby enter our indignant protest against the action of the Government in sanctioning the importation into South Africa of indentured Chinese labour. We never dreamt that it was for this that we endured the hardships and privations of the war. We call upon all electors of the Chertsey Division to use the opportunity offered them by the present by-election to show their resentment at the action of the Government by voting for Mr. Thomas Sadler, who is opposed to the Chinese Labour Ordinance."

"Apropos the 'chess wave' at home, the Daily Graphic says:—"We are not a nation of chess-players, as, for example, are the Japanese, among whom the game serves as a natural bridge between social grades; but there are a great many 'chess friendships' in England, kept up by postcard games and the recognition of initials in the list of solutions of problems. Perhaps there is some truth in the old accusation against the game that the man who excels at chess will never excel at anything else; but it fulfils some of the requisites of a means of international communication. It is symbolic, and requires no common knowledge beyond acquaintance with the rules and moves and the titles of the squares, all of which may be learned in a week."

A youth at home was charged by his employers with unlawfully absconding himself from business. It appears he had applied in July for a fortnight's holiday, and was told that he could take a week, commencing with the August Bank Holiday. On July 22nd he absconded himself from work, and sent a doctor's certificate stating that he was suffering from metallic poisoning. On inquiry being made it was found that instead of being at home ill he had gone to Deal and joined the Lads' Brigade that was camping there. On returning he wrote to the firm saying that he was still unwell, and he went off with another Volunteer brigade. The doctor who gave the certificate was interviewed, and said the boy had "imposed on him," telling him that he was suffering from metallic poisoning.—The Defendant: "The doctor asked me my symptoms, and I told him. He said, 'Do you think it's metallic poisoning?' and I said, 'Yes; put that down.' (Laughter.) We do not yet know what was done to him, the case being adjourned when the mail left."

WHITE OR BROWN BREAD?

Of the many interesting results of the official dietetic experiments described to the British Association by Professor Atwater, of Connecticut, that which will command most attention is the discovery that white flour contains a larger proportion of digestible constituents than whole-wheat meal. This is another popular theory exploded, and another illustration afforded of the danger of arguing directly from the laboratory to the human organism. Because the test tube showed that whole meal was richer than flour in the constituents of the body, dietetic reformers jumped to the conclusion that it was the better food. Experimentum in corpore has now proved them to be wrong. It would be equally fallacious, however, to go to the other extreme, and claim that to all persons and at all times the preparations of white flour are more nourishing than those of whole meal. Much depends upon the cooking; still more upon the digestive idiosyncrasies of the consumer. The wise man is he who eats, not to the rule of others, but to that of his own euppeptic experience.

MASONIC FUNERAL.

Mr. Lawrence Mallory, whose death was mentioned in our issue of yesterday, was buried at Happy Valley yesterday afternoon. Mr. Mallory, as a Freemason, was Deputy District Grand Master of Hongkong and South China (Scottish Constitution). His brother Masons attended the funeral in full regalia. The body passed the Monument at 5 p.m. Besides Mr. Mallory's Masonic brethren, many non-Masons attended. Included in those present, with their Masonic designations, were:—

The Rev. F. T. Johnson officiated, and Sir Paul Clater went through the Masonic ceremony.

HONGKONG HOCKEY CLUB.

The annual general meeting of the Hongkong Hockey Club was held at the Hongkong Club yesterday evening. Mr. J. Burton occupied the chair.

Mr. Burton, in moving the adoption of the report and accounts, remarked that they spoke for themselves and there was no need to enlarge on them. They had had a successful year and the Club was on a sound basis to commence the coming season.

Mr. Knyvett seconded, and the motion was carried.

Mr. Burton moved that the following committee be elected "en bloc":—L. Murphy (captain); L. E. Dartnell, R.N.; Capt. P. G. Davies, A.O.D.; J. Hooper; C. P. Chater; P. K. Knyvett; T. C. Gray (Hon. Sec. and Hon. Treas.).

This was carried.

On the motion of Mr. T. C. Gray, seconded by Mr. Hooper, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded the Chairman. This terminated the proceedings.

ROYAL HONGKONG YACHT CLUB.

The annual meeting of the Royal Hongkong Yacht Club was held at the Hongkong Hotel last evening. Hon. F. H. May presided, and a number of members were present.

Hon. MAY said that H.E. Sir Matthew Nathan, the Governor, took a great interest in yachting. There was no time this season, however, for him to get a yacht, but he had been asked and consented to be patron of the Club. As a mark that they were becoming famous the Irish International Exhibition had invited them to send some of their yachts, and he was sure they all wished they could be there.

The officers for the ensuing season, were then elected as follows:—

Hon. F. F. May, commodore; Commodore Dickson, R.N., vice-commodore; Committee: Messrs. H. W. Bird, M. Slade, Hon. R. E. Pollock, J. Hastings and A. Denison; Mr. Ough, treasurer; Col. L. F. Brown, R.E., secretary; Mr. Gale, measurer; Capt. Watkins and Mr. E. M. Hazell, assistant measurers.

The dates decided on for the races, all public holidays being avoided, were:—

Opening Cruise, October 20th; 1st Club race, October 30th; 2nd Club race, November 6th; 3rd Club race, November 20th; 4th Club race, December 4th; 5th Club race, December 18th; 6th Club race, January 8th; 7th Club race, January 22nd; 8th Club race, February 12th; 9th Club race, February 26th; 10th Club race, March 5th; 11th Club race, March 19th; 12th Club race, April 2nd.

A member complained that notices regarding the meeting had not been sent around, and this was noted by the secretary.

There was some discussion about races for cruisers, but the Chairman ruled any formal motion on this subject out of order, and the matter was left for the committee.

It was decided that the races should commence at 1 p.m., one-design leaving at 1.10 p.m. and handicap class boats at 1.20 p.m.

The meeting concluded with a vote of thanks to the Chairman.

Not long ago, the papers had it that General Kuroki was a Frenchman, his name really being something like Curique. Now we are told that he is by descent a Pole, whose father fled from Russia after the revolution of 1831. According to M. Oshimo, who claims to be General Kuroki's nephew, the Japanese Commander's real name is Kurovski, which is the appellation of a noble Polish family, and he offers, in proof of his statement, an envelope with General Kuroki's crest, which is identical with that of the Kurovski family. According to this gentleman, who is a student at the University of Berlin, Kuroki's father, on his death-bed, left to his son that heritage of hate for Russia which only a Pole can bequeath.

COALING RUSSIAN CRUISERS.

LONDON, 27th September.

The Terek has arrived at Lisbon. The Madrid Espana states that the Terek's treatment at Las Palmas was due to the British Ambassador giving the Government semi-officially to understand that Britain would protest against the utilisation of Spanish territory as a base for harassing British commerce. The coaling which had already begun was then stopped.

LATER.
The story published by the Espana is officially denied in London.

A GUNLESS CRUISER.

The Russian volunteer cruiser Nijni Novgorod has passed the Dardanelles en route to Candia and Port Said, where she will await instructions. She is flying the commercial flag and carries no guns or munitions of war.

THE RUSSIANS AT KOWLOON.

"Fair Play" writes expressing his pleasure at our "sensible note" on the treatment of our Russian guests, and asking us to refute the "untruthful suggestions" of a contemporary.

We are not displeased by the compliment; but wish it to be distinctly expressed and understood that we disapprove of the principle of addressing contradictions or other comments to any journal but the one that published the statements they relate to. Obviously the other practice is unjust and unreasonable.

In the present case, we publish extracts from the letter because of their immediate interest.

The Russian rank-and-file at Kowloon are provided with thick mattresses for their "plank beds," and our correspondent assures us that he prefers and uses a bed of exactly similar kind.

"The picks and shovels are supplied by the Colonial Government, not by the military authorities, and the work the men will be employed on (I hear on the best authority) will be under the orders of the Colonial Government, and connected with King's Park."

"As regards the general comfort of the men, the Russian Consul states they are exceedingly comfortable."

THE STRENGTH OF THE RUSSIAN FORCES.

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Matin last month sent the following "precise information" as to the number of troops now at the disposal of Russia in the Far East. The forces guarding the railway line are excluded from this calculation. At Port Arthur there are in all 47,000 men, 10,000 of whom are new homs de combat. The field artillery number 5,000. At Vladivostok General Linvitch has under his orders 40,000 men. General Kurapatkin's forces, amounting to 150,000 men at the maximum, are face to face with 250,000 Japanese. But the rain may save the situation, according to military circles in St. Petersburg, for if operations are delayed for some time longer the 5th and 6th Eastern Siberian Army Corps, both numbering 30,000 men, the 1st (St. Petersburg) Corps, also 30,000, and the 8th Army Corps, which, however, is not yet formed—in all 120,000 men—may join the army at the front before the next engagement takes place. In the St. Petersburg churches, accordingly to the correspondent of the Matin, prayers are being offered that the rain may continue to fall unrelentingly.

A "NOBLE DELUSION"

Speaking at Plombières, before the Society of Veterans, M. Meline said that the society was a living protest against the new school which sought to deny the idea of a Fatherland and the principles upon which love of one's country was based. The speaker went on to relate the dreams of internationalism, which he declared to be dangerous. The reality, M. Meline declared, was very different. "National patriotism," he said, "exalts itself and daily becomes more personal and more exclusive. Great Britain, Germany, and the United States do not shrink from any sacrifice to increase their war equipment. We ought to profit by the example of Russia, who tried to avoid war, made every concession, but all in vain, for Japan had determined upon war. Russia has to-day to make immense efforts to atone for her over-confidence, and must bring into the struggle treasures of heroism and sublime patience if she wants to make sure of victory. It was the same in 1870. We did not believe in the possibility of war. The saying was: 'The Empire is Peace,' and it was this noble delusion which led us on to disaster. It is for veterans to remind the young fighters that if they should not seek war they should always be ready to wage it."

HONGKONG LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

A meeting of the Legislative Council was held yesterday afternoon in the Council Chamber. Present:—

FINANCIAL.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY laid on the table Financial Minutes (Nos. 49 and 50) and moved that they be referred to the Finance Committee.

The COLONIAL TREASURER seconded, and the motion was agreed to.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY laid on the table the Report of the Finance Committee (No. 10) and moved its adoption.

The COLONIAL TREASURER seconded, and the motion was agreed to.

APPROPRIATION BILL.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY moved the second reading of the Bill entitled an Ordinance to apply a sum not exceeding five million eight hundred and thirty-five thousand four hundred and seventy dollars to the Public Service of the year 1905.

The COLONIAL TREASURER seconded.

Hon. R. SHEWAN said:—Before venturing to offer a few remarks upon the estimates now before us, let me congratulate the Council and the Colony in general on the change that has recently taken place in some of our most important offices.

Frederick the Great when he began to perceive what manner of man the great Pitt was said to have exclaimed, "England has been a long time in labour, but at last she has brought forth a man."

We may say the same of the Colonial Office, for it has sent us a man who I am sure we shall delight to honour—one who we think and feel will prove a good Governor for us, who will take a real interest in the Colony and in us and in our affairs, and who will deal justly between man and man, whether he be official or unofficial, Chinaman or foreigner. He may even in time succeed in overcoming the hideous prejudices of those officials whose only God seems to be "old custom." He "nibbles" might we cannot tell "even induce them to 'take' a thicket" and mend their ways by keeping the minute book properly, for why we should have to go to the minutes for our questions and to local newspapers for our answers?

HIS EXCELLENCY:—That is scarcely what the Bill before us deals with.

Hon. Mr. SHEWAN:—I am talking of the Clerk of Councils' business, and his salary is in the Estimates.

HIS EXCELLENCY:—That would be rather a question to be brought up when we come to the consideration of the items. The hon. member should speak of the matter before the Council.

Hon. Mr. SHEWAN:—The official members have marvelled why their questions should be printed and their replies not be given. That is a thing none of us can understand. I also think we are fortunate, in fact I am sure, in our new Director of Public Works, for he has already shown himself to be a man who is able and willing to rise above red tape when necessary to do so to accelerate the business of the public. I really believe that under Mr. Jones' regime my friend and neighbour Mr. Goetz when he next gives a dance will not have to wait six weeks for a permit to put up a little masted, and only receive the said permit duly signed, sealed, and delivered long after the masted itself had been put up and taken down and the dance was a thing of the past.

HIS EXCELLENCY:—That is hardly a matter of finance.

Hon. Mr. SHEWAN:—Sir, I am finished. We laugh at the Circumlocution Office and "how not to do it," and we say that Dickens exaggerated, but here is something quite worthy of that picture, and shows that the race of the Barnacles is not yet extinct. I also congratulate the Colonial Treasurer on the full and clear statement and explanations he has given of the items of revenue and expenditure; but I am sorry to see my old friends "miscellaneous receipts" and "miscellaneous services" still bulk too largely therein. Miscellaneous receipts, for instance, is composed almost wholly of two amounts—$120,000, profit from subsidiary coinage, and $82,200, from conservancy contract; and here I would enquire why there was no profit from subsidiary coin the first half of this year, and more especially why the Government allow this profitable business to be spoiled and interfered with by the wretched Chinese coins that are flooding this place. Turning to the estimates themselves, the first thing that strikes me is that there is not much margin between revenue $7,195,000, and expenditure of $7,170,000, and if the Opium Farm, which is put down there for $2,200,000, or land sales, which figure for $500,000, should fail us, we shall be in Queer Street. Land sales, however, will probably do all that is expected, for the Colony is prosperous, the population is increasing, and land will probably continue in good demand; but you must remember that in these land sales you are living on your capital, they are not revenue, and 75 years' leases will not improve that demand. It is the old official story. In 75 years we shall all be dead and gone, and after us—the Deluge. But you must consider that in a few years these leases will have run off considerably, and capitalists who are looking for land for their enterprise, or Chinese and others who want to buy property for their families, will look very askance at property which has only a life of perhaps 50 or 60 years left. It is true that there is some condition as to option of renewal for another 75 years, but the terms have to be re-arranged, and who is going to fix the new price or premium and the new Crown rent, etc., etc.? It is altogether too vague and indefinite for business men—they can do better elsewhere—and the consequences will be that Government land on such terms will grow more and more out of favour. Talking of land reminds me I have seen Hongkong in its darkest days, when houses were to be had for the asking, and with no rent but payment of taxes, but I never thought that I should see it reduced to scraping the hillsides for revenue, or the Government doing the very thing that it has often fined and imprisoned old women for doing. The great Colbert took credit for a notable saving for his master Louis the Fourteenth by substituting imitation lace for real lace on his officers' uniforms, and this cheapening spirit of income seems to have descended upon our present Prime Minister. For the last few weeks the Colony has been singing in chorus the old song "Woodman, spare that Tree," to the Colonial Secretary; but in spite of what Shakespeare says about the man that is not moved with concord of sweet sounds, he has turned a deaf ear or hummed a song in reply that sounded very like "the Bulger is coming, hurrah, hurrah!" Well, it has come now, and we find that the country is to be saved by the magnificent sum of $30,000, and I am not sure that even that is met. If you must get revenue from your trees why not plant rubber trees? They grow very well on this island, and the Colonial Secretary can enjoy himself tapping or milking them for revenue without destroying and devastating the landscape. If the beauty of our hills, of which we have long been proud since we planted them, is to be sacrificed to the exigencies of finance, the next thing I suppose we shall see will be that the Public Gardens have been turned into market gardens, and Othello's occupation being gone, the head of the Botanical Department will find useful employment in hawking vegetables round the town. Nearly half a million dollars spent upon the Sanitary Department must give us pause and make the ordinary man wonder if we get our money's worth, and if it is worth all that expenditure. It does seem a subject of reflection that in spite of our expenditure and precautions and our boasted Western medical science, the plague should run its course here, just exactly as it does neither sooner nor later in Canton, where nothing is done to contend with it. I am glad to see so much put down for expenditure on public works, but I hope Mr. Jones will not at the end of the year tell us, as some of his predecessors have done, that they never expected to spend all that money or do all that work, for they never had the man, etc., etc. If he feels that way he should speak out now, or for ever hold his peace. When are the promised experiments in wood paving and other materials for road making to be commenced? When is he going to remove the Clock Tower which obstructs Queen's Road, and I hope, cast it into the sea? Will he now push on vigorously with the Law Courts and the Post Office? In regard to the former I still think that it should have been designed by local architects, who are now putting up buildings worthy of any European city, even Birmingham. There is an old Scottish saying which Sir Walter Scott was very fond of repeating, that "we should keep our ain fashions for our ain seamstresses." It is not a sentiment that I am over much in love with, but it is the doctrine that Mr. Chamberlain preaches. A little practice is worth a deal of precept, and Hongkong work should not be given to men who may have won prizes at school in Birmingham, who know nothing of climatic conditions out here nor anything of the tropics, or what kind of buildings are best adapted for life in this part of the world. From what I heard when the plans first came out I formed the idea that the courtroom, as designed, would be about as light and airy as the Black Hole of Calcutta. I know that the Government architect denies this, but I do not think that gentlemen have come to the Colony when these plans first arrived. As for the Post Office, we paid an enormous sum of half a million dollars, or $20 a foot, if I remember rightly, for the site; and I can see no reason why we should not utilise the ground for all it is worth and get all we can out of it by putting up another storey and putting the Harbour Master and all his works into it. He would have a fine view of the harbour; he would be in a much pleasanter situation than he is at present. It would be much more convenient for shipping people and the shipping firms; and last, but not least, the Colonial Treasurer could take out the Bulger with the proceeds of the sale of the old site, which must be very valuable. I think we in Hongkong suffer from two things, partly from want of taste and still more from lack of imagination. If there were a name—that was endeared to all old residents by old memories and associations it was Pedlar's Wharf, and it was more snobbish and toadiness to alter it to Blake Pier. In the old days Pedlar's Wharf was, and still is, the centre of the life of the harbour. It was the starting point of all our little expeditions and adventures to the mainland, and of all our picnics and bathing parties; it commemorated the name of a naval officer who had rendered good services in his time to his Queen and this Colony, and if it were necessary to advertise the name of any particular official there were surely plenty of new buildings and streets that could be used for the purpose. If the old name could be restored to us without offence I am sure the community would hail it with delight, but the wretched scoundrels who were responsible for this miserable piece of time-serving surely deserve and will surely receive the contempt of every right-minded man. As for lack of imagination, one has only to go through the streets of the town and see with what an absence of any care, taste, forethought or imagination the place has been laid out. Somehow or other it seems impossible for us to look ahead and try to imagine what Hongkong will be twenty years hence. I don't say that the Government are the only sinners in this respect; we the people are just as bad. We had so little foresight that we built the Hongkong Club on half the piece of ground we could have obtained at the ridiculous price of $3 a foot. A year or two afterwards we had to buy half the remainder at double the price, and had to build a bridge across the road to get at it. A little imagination there would have saved us a lot of money and given us a much better club. It may be too late to do much for Hongkong, but in Kowloon and the New Territory the Government have a splendid chance of laying deep their plans for the future. We want over there main roads, 125ft., not 50ft., wide, with broad boulevards and avenues with. I was going to say, rows of fine shade-giving trees down them. But the thought of so much firewood running to waste would be too harrowing to the feelings of the Colonial Secretary and his friend the Woodcutter when they took their walks abroad over there. Don't tell me that it can't be done, we are tired of hearing of that word "can't"; if you won't do it then give us good reasons; if it is a matter of money that prevents you doing these things properly, then let us have a Loan. How humiliating, how mortifying it was for me to be told the other day by a German friend who had recently been to Tsingtau, that there was not a road in Hongkong that could compare with those they have in Tsingtau. Think of it, gentlemen. Hongkong, the fifth port in the world. I do beseech the Government to look ahead, for there will be tramways and railways some day in Kowloon, and we should not always leave work till the last minute and then do it in the scrappiest and cheapest manner possible. Before I sit down I must make one honourable exception to my charge of lack of imagination. There is one man who through good report and evil report has remained steadfast to his belief in the future of Hongkong. He was derided for his Praya Reclamation Scheme, but the Whirlwind of Time brings its revenges; he was right, and time has nobly vindicated him. Need I say that I refer to the senior unofficial member, the member for the justices? In the far off years to come, when this Council and all connected with it shall have vanished from this earthly plane into the limbo of things forgotten, they will take the globe-trotter down to our new Praya, and they will show him the buildings which have lately sprung up there; and they will say of Sir Paul Chater, as was said once before of another noble knight, like him, a mighty workman in bricks and mortar, St. monumentum requirit, circumspice.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY:—Sir, The remarks of the hon. member have certainly furnished two surprises which I myself never expected to experience in this Council Chamber. One is the actual praise that has been meted out to a subordinate official in Hongkong, which I thought was a thing that never could happen here, and the other is that a gentleman, sir, an Englishman, a member of this Council, a man who holds a considerable position in this Colony, should stand up and in the presence of two of our Chinese fellow-subjects and of the Press, who will duly report his remarks, employ terms regarding a former representative of His Majesty the King in this Colony which I should have thought any man would have been ashamed to utter. Now, sir, there are—

Hon. Mr. SHEWAN:—I did not apply it to that gentleman. I applied it to the gentleman who advised the last representative of His Majesty to do that.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY:—The distinction, sir, is so fine that it can hardly be termed a distinction at all. The hon. member mentioned Canton coins and wondered why we did not restrict them coming into this Colony. I would like to ask him how he—who seems greatly interested in the finance of the Colony—would like to hear of the Viceroy of Canton prohibiting the flow of Hongkong coins into China. I think our profit on subsidiary coins would very rapidly disappear if such action were taken. He next criticised the system of granting 75 years' leases, and told us that this would depreciate property in the future in this Colony. That is a cry that was raised at the time that the change was made, and all I can say is that the land sales ever since the change was made have fully justified the wisdom of making it. The land appears to be as much sought after as it was under longer leases. He next animadverted on the policy of the Afforestation Department, and all I can say with respect to that, sir, is that it is one more example of the innate aversion Englishmen have to anything connected with science. They do things in a "bull-dog" sort of way; but to do these in a scientific way and they seemed to have no appreciation whatever. He next deplored our expenditure upon plague and said they got on just as well in Canton where they took no precautions. I think he begged the question. He added no evidence at all that this year, when we have been practically immune, plague has not ravaged very severely in Canton and vicinity. My information and the information of the Sanitary Board is to the effect that during the current year Hongkong has been conspicuous by its freedom from plague, with plague all round it. As for his remarks on the Law Courts, all I can say is, wait and see their completion and then criticise the building. He advised the Government to put another storey on the Post Office. Perhaps he has forgotten that it is actually going to be done. There is one storey more to be added to it to be kept in reserve for the expansion of official business that is certain to take place with the expansion of the Colony. The last remark I made a note of, Sir, was concerning our roads. I have not been at Tsingtau, but if they have got better roads in Tsingtau than we have in Hongkong, all I can say is that we are fortunate.

HIS EXCELLENCY:—There are certain points that the hon. Colonial Secretary did not touch on, in reply to the speech of the hon. Mr. Shewan, with which I will deal. I could not understand the first point raised in connection with the Estimates. The hon. member stated that "miscellaneous receipts" ought not in his opinion to include conservancy contracts and profits on subsidiary coins—that these are sufficiently important items to be separately dealt with under the heading "details of revenue." It seems to me that they are so separately dealt with. It is perfectly clear that $54,150 is anticipated to be derived from conservancy contracts and $120,000 from the profits on subsidiary coins.

Hon. Mr. SHEWAN:—What I wanted to point out was that a small item of $5,000 of interest has a separate heading, while this item of $120,000 is under "miscellaneous receipts."

HIS EXCELLENCY:—It is a small thing; it is a matter of type.

Hon. Mr. SHEWAN:—It is a matter of book-keeping.

HIS EXCELLENCY:—The hon. member went on to refer to the disadvantage of crediting revenue with land sales. I believe that is a question that has been very often considered and also discussed in this Council. It seems legitimate to do so in view of the fact that we are spending largely out of the revenue for public works that we anticipate will be remunerative. With regard to the remarks made by the hon. member on the subject of cutting trees, I think that he forgot at the moment that in so far as any one person is responsible for the work of the Departments in the Colony that person is myself and not the Colonial Secretary. It seems to me nearly unnecessary to have gone out of the way to bring in the Colonial Secretary in that particular direction.

Hon. Mr. SHEWAN:—I thought this was inaugurated before your Excellency's arrival by the Officer Administering the Government.

HIS EXCELLENCY:—The Colonial Secretary has stated what I have also learned was the case, that while we were successful this year in keeping down the number of cases of plague to considerably less than what it has been in many years since 1894, the epidemic raged in Canton as badly as ever. I do not myself attribute very much importance to that, but I do think it is our bounden duty to carry out such measures as scientific men who have studied the question tell us to be necessary to improve the health of the community. The hon. member threw some doubt on the Public Works Department spending all the money provided for them in the Estimates. As a matter of fact the works we are now carrying out are the contracts that have been entered into for some time, and that are going on smoothly and rapidly; and we want to have enough money so that there should not be a check on the work, for instance, of the Law Courts and of the Post Office, which the hon. member thought might possibly occur.

The small question of the Clock Tower in Queen's Road is one that I am not able to present to give any opinion on. On the large question of employing local architects in preference to getting designs from the best architects in England, I am not entirely in accord with the hon. member. He talked of taste in this Colony. I do not know that it was quite in connection with this subject. At any rate I think we are better here for having some good examples imported from outside and for such examples than to the office of Messrs. Aston Webb and Ingress Bell, the gentlemen who are now designing the most important buildings in England and in other parts of the British Empire. Certainly the best building we have in the Colony, which I recently had the pleasure of inspecting, was designed by the same architects who sent us the designs of the Law Courts. The question of roads at Kowloon has received the very careful attention of the Public Works, and probably the hon. member if he has recently been there will have noticed some steps in the direction in which he argued. I should think it is quite likely that at Tsingtau they have splendid roads. It is part of the German policy. When I visited the German colony adjacent to the Gold Coast last year I was struck by the great expenditure they had incurred on roads. I was much more struck by the fact that the German residents of the Colony itself seemed to consider somehow that the expenditure had been in excess of any advantage that was likely to be derived from it. The only matter which remains for me to refer to is that question raised—I can't think very fortunately—by the hon. member as to the want of taste. I think that is a question which was answered by the silence with which it was received.

The second reading of the Bill was agreed to.

The COLONIAL SECRETARY moved that the Bill be referred to the Finance Committee.

The COLONIAL TREASURER seconded, and the motion was agreed to.

The Council adjourned sine die.

SUPREME COURT.

Thursday, 29th September.

IN SUMMARY JURISDICTION.

BEFORE HIS HONOUR T. SERCOMBE SMITH (PUISNE JUDGE).

A LEASE DISPUTE.

Chan Kin Cho, trader, 46, North Station
Street, Yau-mat, sued Ting On, 48, Sheung Wan Street, Samsui, for specific performance of an agreement and $500 damages. Mr. R.
Harding, of Messrs. Ewens and Harston, solicitors, appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr.
E. J. Grist, of Messrs. Wilkinson and Grist, solicitors, was for the defendant.

Mr. Harding in opening the case said that about the beginning of the current Chinese year the plaintiff entered into negotiations with defendant to lease certain premises at Sam-sui. On 16th April a six years' lease was signed. But the plaintiff had never been let into possession, although he had made repeated applications, and the defendant had failed to carry out this agreement. Plaintiff now brought this action for breach of the agreement and also for damages.

Mr. Grist said the whole question was whether the document was a lease or an agreement for a lease.

After hearing parties his Lordship reserved judgment.
